Business Team Triumphs Again

Seven months of hard work became very much worth it all to Harding's four-man Business Team on April 27 as they captured the college's second championship in Michigan State University's International Intercollegiate Marketing Competition.

In bringing home the trophy, Harding became the only college ever to win twice in the six years the competition has been held. The 1966 team also won the simulated business battle.

First decisions in the games were made in late September, and the final round and oral presentation were made in East Lansing.

Wins Both Parts

Harding's contingent went ahead midway in the year and finished in top position both in the computer-judged straight-through competition and in the oral presentation, judged by business leaders, which counted 30 per cent of the results.

Lost a Member

The team — Mike O'Neal, Alvin Fowler, Bob Hesselrode and Rick Venable — lost senior member Glenn Barber in the reservist call-up before the competition ended, but sponsor Bill R. Cox shuffled their duties and the team came through in winning form.

The May 6 issue of Marketing Insights magazine gave broad coverage to the games, complete with cover photo of the Harding team, and praised the winners. The article said Harding employed "a near-professional approach to the simulated business management competition — plus a professional-level final presentation."

The magazine credited Harding's success in attaining a high return on investment to "facile early planning, coupled with sharp objectives and controlled experimentation." Captain O'Neal explained the team's strategy in the final presentation.

Gets Chrissy Cup

In making awards at the closing conference, Dr. W. J. E. Chrissy of Michigan State's Graduate School of Business said of the competition, "Professionalism is the name of the game." He gave to Harding the rotating Chrissy Cup and a smaller permanent trophy.

Should Harding win the competition again, it would retire the rotating trophy.

The games involve the conducting of a hypothetical corporation's business, including all areas of marketing, research, sales and advertising. Each college deals with the same "products" and competes for its share of the market.

Runners-up to Harding were Ft. Lewis (Colo.) College, the University of Wisconsin and Dyke College of Cleveland, Ohio.

Final Judges

Judges for the oral presentation were Ralph Moulton, president of Auto-Owners Insurance Co.; G. W. Woerner Jr., vice president of IBM's data processing division; Ross Millhiser, president of Philip Morris; Marlon C. Rico, faculty advisor to the Middle Tennessee State University team; and Alexander Garcia, faculty advisor to the Fairleigh Dickinson team.

Harding first entered the games in 1965, when the team placed second behind the University of South Carolina. Other winners have been Kent State University in 1963, Notre Dame in 1964 and Bowling Green State University in 1967.

Enthusiasm Builds for Missions Program

Early response to the college's new program of total missionary training has been very gratifying, according to Dr. Joe Hacker Jr., who has presented the plan to Christians in Tennessee, Texas, Louisiana, Kansas, Oklahoma and Arkansas.

"Members of the church are getting excited about the program," Dr. Hacker said. "They're telling us that this is something that should have been started long ago."

The program is a three-pronged one built around the new undergraduate major in missions, approved in January. The first part concerns classroom study under former and present missionaries. The second facet emphasizes study on the actual mission field, through work supervised by missionaries.

The third branch of the program is provided by the annual World Evangelism Seminar, an intensive four-week summer study designed as a continuing education offering for missionaries, elders, deacons and others.

Advisory Council

Dr. Hacker and Floyd Daniel of the Development Office currently are building an advisory council on missions, composed of church leaders who will evaluate and discuss the program periodically and help provide funds needed for salaries, scholarships and annual field work.

"One of the things about the program that people especially favor is the abundant contact the students will have with men and women who either are or have been missionaries," Dr. Hacker said. "The emphasis is on practicality and experienced instruction."

Joe Cannon, with long experience in the Far East, is the first of a series of visiting professors of missions to be brought to the campus for a year while on leave of absence from their mission efforts.

Cannon and Dr. Winfred Wright, assistant professor of French and former missionary to France, will provide classroom training for missions majors in 1968-69.

Dr. Hacker's involvement with students in Project Germany in 1967 and 1968 is an example of the type of supervised field training for which the college will give academic credit toward the B.A. Students traveling with him and others approved by the college may earn valuable practical experience while pursuing a degree.

Other field arrangements in various locations are being planned in order to give students a wide choice of areas in which to work. This summer Dr. Hacker will investigate possibilities in Belgium, Germany and Italy.

The World Evangelism Seminar, currently in progress, is in its sixth year of service to world missions. Once the hub of mission preparation, it will continue to be of service to those unable to participate in the regular undergraduate program.

Foreign and Domestic

Just as the 1968 seminar broadened its scope to include training for domestic as well as foreign missions, the total Harding program will see the world as its mission, providing instruction and on-the-scene experience for prospective workers in places both at home and abroad.

"Ours is not a casual program, and neither is it a 'crash' program," Dr. Hacker said. "We believe that the four-year program of specialized training will help in a great way to answer the worldwide crisis in evangelism."

Dr. Lewis to Lead Bible Lands Tour, Lecturing En Route

Graduate or undergraduate credit for a special course, "On-the-Scene Seminar in the Journeys of Paul," will be offered Aug. 26-Sept. 16 for students who travel through Bible lands with Dr. Jack P. Lewis, professor of Bible at the Harding Graduate School of Religion.

Dr. Lewis, who is on sabbatical leave as a Thayer Fellow of the American School of Oriental Research in Jerusalem, will meet the seminar in Beirut, its first overseas stop, and lead the group through its visits to the sites of significance for the study.

Countries to be included are Italy, Lebanon, Israel, Cyprus, Syria, Turkey and Greece.

Graduate students may gain one hour credit in "Bible Geography," and undergraduates may receive two hours credit for "Biblical World." Non-credit participants also will be accepted.

The seminar will consist of directed readings and lectures on biblical archaeology and geography as well as tours of cities.

Two Groups to Germany

Students, Faculty Join Campaigns

Several Harding students and faculty members are participating this summer in campaign efforts in Germany, one group working with the German people and the other working chiefly with U. S. military personnel.

Project Germany '68, sponsored by the 12th and Drexel congregation in Oklahoma City, involves 25 Christian students, six of them from Harding, working in four campaigns June 10-July 21. Campaign cities are Essen, Frankfurt, Cologne and Karlsruhe.

Dr. Joe Hacker Jr., Bible department chairman, is co-directing the project with Wilson Meek, an elder at 12th and Drexel. Dr. Hacker will oversee the last two campaigns, at Cologne and Karlsruhe.

Project '68 is the first such effort placing German people and preachers in prominent teaching positions. The American students, who have been studying the language, will form pairs with German Christians to do personal work.

Dr. Evan Ulrey and his family are accompanying a group of 12 Harding students to work in campaigns in Brussels, Belgium, and Frankfurt, Kaiserslautern and Weisbaden, Germany, June 9-July 14.

Stanley Shipp of Abilene is preaching in the meetings, held chiefly for military personnel.

Dr. Ulrey also is to speak in lectureships at Florence, Italy, and Copenhagen, Denmark.

Student Weekly Gets Top Award In State Judging

Harding's student newspaper, The Bison, continued its winning ways in Arkansas competition this year by capturing the Sweepstakes Award of the Arkansas College Press Association. Doug McBride of Camden was editor.

Named as editor and business manager for 1968-69 are Mrs. Kay Gowen of Corning and Rick Venable of Bartlesville, Okla. Venable succeeds Mike Frampton of Indianapolis, Ind.

Although The Bison scored twice as many points in the sweepstakes rating as the second place paper, it was named second in the separately judged General Excellence competition, behind The Bray of Southern State College. The Sweepstakes Award brought a $100 cash prize.

In major categories the Bison placed first in editorial page handling and headlines, second in advertising and third in makeup and typography.

Individual winners were Lynn McCauley of Granbury, Tex., first in general column; Jerry Muir of Grove City, N. J., first in cartoons; Jean Flippin of Tahoka, Tex., first in sports feature and third in sports column; and McBride, second in sports news and editorials.

Belles & Beaux Win Fifth Overseas Tour

The Belles and Beaux, veterans of four overseas entertainment tours, have won their fifth tour sponsored by the National Music Council and U.S.O. Shows.

The singers will tour U. S. military bases in the Northeast Command March 4-31, 1969, including Greenland, Iceland, Newfoundland and Labrador. It is the same area covered in 1966 by the Harding Collegiate Players with "Where's Charley?"

Although tours usually are not awarded to the same group in successive years, the Belles and Beaux received an invitation for 1969 shortly after returning from their Far East trip in March.

The entertainers will be one of 31 groups traveling next year under the auspices the U.S.O., N.M.C. and the American Educational Theater Association.

May Day, PJ Royalty Crowned

The month of May brought the crowning of two traditional queens on the campus, with Dinah Chisum reigning over May Fete ceremonies and Jan Chapman featured as 1968 Petit Jean Queen.

Miss Chisum, a junior elementary education major from Port Arthur, Tex., was crowned May 4 in the annual May Day and High School Day event.

The Petit Jean Queen was presented May 14 at dedication ceremonies for the yearbook. Miss Chapman, a junior elementary education major from Dallas, was attended by Judy Worth of Richardson, Tex., and Mrs. Donna Duer Eldridge of Opelika, Ala.

The 1968 Petit Jean was dedicated to Neil B. Cope, chairman of the journalism department and a faculty member for 32 years. He received the first copy of the book from editor Ann Camp of Wichita Falls, Tex. Business manager was Randy Jackson of Paducah, Ky.

Featured in the personalities division of the Petit Jean were:

Best All Around, Allan Eldridge of Alton, Ill., and Mrs. Kay Smith Gowen of Corning; Honor Students, Dale Work of Trenton, Mich., and Faye Brewer of Foley, Ala.; Regina Spirit Award, Allan Eldridge.

Senior favorites, Sam Hester of Muscle Shoals, Ala., and Helen Howell of Little Rock; junior favorites, Roger Lamb of Jacksonville and Marcia Marks of Clarks Hills, Ind.; sophomore favorites, David Jones of Opelika, Ala., Mary Smith of Newport and Jimmy Carr of Tallahassee, Fla.; and freshman favorites, Chris Greene

The Academy section of the yearbook, edited by Lauren Lawyer, was dedicated to senior class sponsors, Mrs. Elsie Lynn and Ed Higginbotham. Mr. and Miss Harding Academy were Jim Atteberry and Debbie Ganus.

Scientific Papers By Three Students Take High Awards

Scientific papers by three Harding students won top awards in the collegiate section of the Arkansas Academy of Science meeting in April.

At the same meeting Maurice Lawson, associate professor of physics, was named president-elect of the academy.

William Dempsey, a senior chemistry major with Texarkana, Ark., won first place with his paper based on independent research, "Identification of and a Postulated Mechanism for the Formation of 2- (1-Indanylidene)-I-Inadone During the Polyphosphoric Acid Catalyzed Synthesis of 1-Inadone from Hydrocinnamic Acid."

A joint paper by Wayne Daily, senior chemistry major from El Dorado, and James Frederick, a senior general science major from Liberty, Ky., won second place. It was entitled "Synthesis of and Preliminary Antibacterial Studies on Some Para-Substituted 2-Pyridyl Acetophenones."

New Student Association Leaders

Ronald Reeve (seated) of Siloam Springs has been elected president of the Student Association for 1968-69. Other officers are Lynn Rolan, secretary, of Overland, Mo.; Bruce Stidham, treasurer, of Alexandria, Va.; and Rick Glass, vice-president, of Columbus, Ohio.

Largest Class Is Graduated

Roy F. Osborne and Carr P. Collins delivered baccalaureate and commencement addresses in May to 240 students, the largest class ever graduated by Harding.

Osborne, minister of the San Leandro Church of Christ in San Leandro, Calif., was the choice of the senior class as baccalaureate speaker on May 26. In 1967 he held a meeting at the College Church of Christ.

Commencement exercises May 30 featured an address by Collins, who is founder, chairman of the board and president of Fidelity Union Life Insurance Co. of Dallas.

The college also presented the Distinguished American Citizen Award to Collins and to Thomas Carvel of Yonkers, N. Y. Carvel, a native of Greece, is founder and chairman of the board of the Carvel Organization, a national chain of more than 400 franchised ice cream stores and manufacturer of its own store freezers, counters, fountains and other equipment.

Among the graduates were 185 candidates for the Bachelor of Arts, 45 for the Bachelor of Science and 10 for the Master of Arts in Teaching degrees.

The following are those graduating with honors:

Hymn Programs Receive Citation

"Hymns from Harding," the college's weekly 15-minute radio program featuring the A Cappella Chorus, won a Certificate of Merit April 17 from the Southwest District of the American College Public Relations Association.

The taped program, distributed as a public service to about 170 stations across the country, was cited at the district's annual meeting in San Antonio. It was one of only two winners in the audio products category.

"Hymns from Harding" is taped each week by the 65-voice chorus under the direction of Dr. Kenneth Davis Jr. Recording and duplicating of tapes is handled by the Harding Recording Service.

Each program includes the theme song, "When Day's Shadows Lengthen," introductory and closing remarks, scripture readings and several hymns. Audition tapes are available to stations or individuals upon request.

Reservations Open For Camp Salado

Reservations are still being taken for the college-operated Camp Salado Bible Youth Camp July 28-Aug. 9, according to manager Eddie Campbell.

Camp Salado is held for two weeks each summer at the college's Camp Tahkodah, near Huff, Ark., about 40 miles from Searcy. The session begins after the last of the regular Tahkodah sessions for boys.

The Christian camp is for both boys and girls with a basic cost of $20 per week. Interested persons should write Eddie Campbell at Harding College for more information.

Instructor Completes Ph.D.

Jere Yates, instructor in Bible and religious education, received the Ph.D. degree in religious education May 19 from Boston University, having successfully defended his dissertation April 15.

Dr. Yates' dissertation is entitled "Erikson's Study of the Identity Crisis in Adolescence and Its Implications for Religious Education."

Dr. Yates joined the faculty last fall. He received the B.A. in Bible from Harding in 1963.

Chorus Planning Tour of Europe For Summer, '69

Dr. Kenneth Davis Jr. and the A Cappella Chorus are planning a European tour in the summer of 1969 and are inviting chorus alumni and their families to participate.

The length of the tour has not been determined, but through the Enzor Travel Service a basic cost of $300 for travel and $5 a day has been estimated. Dr. Davis is asking interested alumni to indicate a preference as to length of stay.

Interest in the trip should be confirmed by sending a $50 deposit to Dr. Davis, payable to Harding College and designated "Tour '69." The deposit should be received by Aug. 1.

Dr. Davis said that in order for singers to learn the tour music, tapes of the program would be sent to their homes. A few days for rehearsal also are planned after arrival in Europe.

"We want to make this as helpful and profitable as we possibly can to all mission efforts in the countries visited," Dr. Davis said, "perhaps by singing for campaigns in Paris, Italy and Germany."

If there is not sufficient response, the tour will not be held and money will be refunded, Dr. Davis said.

Music Camp Slates Song Leading Work

Song leading instruction will be featured at the seventh annual Tahkodah Music Camp Aug. 26-Sept. 4, conducted by Harding's music department.

Dr. Kenneth Davis Jr., associate professor of music, and G. E. Baggett, assistant professor of music, will teach daily courses in Bible, fundamentals of music, advanced fundamentals, vocal methods, song leading, sight-singing, music appreciation and conducting.

The camp is open to any person who has completed at least the sophomore year in high school. A special invitation has been extended to those desiring instruction in song leading. Tuition, including room, board, insurance and bed linens, is $40.50.

Both vocal and instrumental groups will rehearse at the camp, and the A Cappella Chorus and Belles and Beaux will attend to prepare for next year.

Maj. Stevens receives congratulations on the drop zone after his last training jump.

Alumnus Merits Silver Wings

The Flying Nun has earned her fame on TV, but Harding has on its alumni rolls a Jumping Chaplain who will be quietly earning a different sort of fame later this year in Vietnam.

He is Chaplain (Maj.) Al Stevens (BA'53), a six-year U. S. Army veteran who completed his airborne training as a paratrooper in January and will begin serving in Vietnam in August.

Stevens, who also holds the M.R.E. and M.Th. degrees from the Harding Graduate School, is in a fairly select group of chaplains who are qualified as parachutists. He estimates that one of every eight chaplains has a chance to apply for airborne training, and only one out of 15 applicants is selected.

The Harding grad also believes he is the only one of 10 Church of Christ chaplains in the services (five each in the Army and Air Force) who wears the hard-earned silver wings.

Why would a chaplain want to be a paratrooper? "There's a tremendous psychological advantage in counseling with the troops," he says. "If you have gone through the tough training, both the airborne and other units respect you for it. You're able to reach them more quickly."

Stevens, at 40, was the oldest trainee in his class, which included three other chaplains. The average age in the class of 600 was 18½.

He now is assigned to the 50th Signal Battalion, Airborne, Ft. Bragg, N. C.

Mrs. Stevens is the former Corene Brown (BA'53). They have three children: Colleen, 13, David Leslie, 2½, and Beth, 1½.

Bowlers, Netters Lead Spring Successes

By Stanley Green

Harding College has concluded the greatest spring in the history of Bison athletics.

In all, the Bisons took a second place in the nation, won two Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference championships, set a record for most victories and came within a single point of taking the AIC All-Sports Trophy.

Coach Ed Burt's bowlers took the AIC title and rolled to a brilliant runner-up spot in the NAIA bowling tournament at Kansas City, as La-Crosse (Wisc.) State took the title.

Junior Johnny Beck of Huntsville, Ala., and sophomore Gary Martin of Searcy teamed to finish third in doubles play. In singles, Beck and Martin placed fourth and tenth, respectively. Freshman Gary Parsons was the 1968 AIC champion, averaging 195 for the eight rounds of regular season play.

The Bisons, under Bob Knight, won the AIC tennis title for the first time, relying on tremendous team balance and depth. Boasting a 13-4 match record going into the AIC tournament, Dean Bawcom of Tyler, Tex., and David Elliott of Nashville made it an all-Harding finale, with Bawcom taking the singles title 7-5, 6-1.

The Bawcom-Elliott combo swept the doubles as well, defeating Southern State 6-3, 7-5. In the district play-off, the duo qualified for the national tournament June 3-9 with a victory over Little Rock University.

On the baseball diamond, Coach Carl Allison guided his team to a 15-9 season, establishing a modern record for victories. Shortstop Roy Steele of Columbia, Tenn., hit .385 to pace the hitters, and southpaw David Jones of Opelika, Ala., racked up a 4-0 record and a 1.25 earned run average.

The young Bisons finished in a tie for fourth in conference play with a 5-7 mark, which included five one-run losses. With only third baseman J. C. White graduating, next year cannot come too soon.

Harding's golf team, paced by sophomore Terry McMichael, placed sixth in the AIC tournament with a 653 total behind Arkansas Tech's winning 614. Coach Bob Gilliam's linksmen made great progress this season and posted a 6-8-1 season record in team match play.

Bison tracksters, led by senior Joe Boyle's double victory, tied for fourth. Boyle, from Sag Harbor, N. Y., captured the mile in 4:13.1 and the 880 in 1:53.0 as well as getting second in the two-mile. Injuries to key men hampered Bison opportunities, but

Ted Lloyd's thinclads made a fine showing.

Miler Jim Crawford won the two-mile in 9:16.6 before withdrawing from competition due to a severe case of tendonitis. High jumper Jesse White scored a hard-earned second place (6-4) while suffering a painful leg injury.

The springtime surge vaulted Harding to within one point of winning the All-Sports Trophy. The Bisons' 64 points, based on credits earned throughout the sports year, makes the second straight year as runner-up for the over-all championship.
